

JUSTICE SHUTS HER EYES.

Magistrates at General Sessions Refuse to Wait for Evidence Against Lena Brierton.

BOWS HER THANKS AND WALKS OUT.

The Chief Witness Testifying in Another Case Elsewhere and Cannot Be Present.

"You are discharged," the speaker was Justice Ryan, who yesterday sat as spokesman for the three magistrates who constitute the "Court of Special Sessions" in this city. The speaker addressed by the Chief Magistrate was a rather good-looking young woman whose mother, so alleged, accompanied her to the bar and who, in spite of three nights in the Tombs, looked cool and collected. She rewarded the Justice with a sweeping bow and walked out. Her discharge was made under curious circumstances.

Last Friday morning there came into the employ of Mr. and Mrs. Paul of 201 East Twenty-eighth street, a domestic who gave her name as Lillie McDermott. She appeared in answer to an advertisement. Mr. Matty, a florist at No. 254 Third avenue, when he turned up at noon for his midday meal he told his wife that the name of the new hired girl looked familiar. He was sure that he had frequently seen her on Third avenue in questionable company. His wife remarked that she thought the girl was all right and went back to his flower shop. A few hours later his wife rushed into the shop with the information that the new girl had stolen her pocketbook containing $15, and had also taken a fine white waist and disappeared. Then Mr. Matty was sure that his first suspicions were correct and immediately set about tracing the thief. He finally succeeded in locating her at No. 211 East Twenty-third street, where she was supposed to be living with her mother as Lena Brierton. He reported the circumstances at the Thirty-fifth Street Station, and Detective Tierney was sent out with him to arrest the girl.

The blotter in the Thirty-fifth Street Station shows that the girl was brought in on Friday evening and that at that time she wore the alleged stolen waist, which was identified by Mrs. Matty. Sergeant Linderman was on duty and after hearing the story of the complaint sent the girl to a cell for the night. The Sergeant said to a World reporter yesterday that he would have compelled the prisoner to take off the waist with her for the fact that the night was chilly and that she was shivering, and with which to cover her shoulders. He therefore sent her to the cell in the morning.

When she came forth from the cell in the morning she had torn the ruffles and all trimming from the waist and denied that it was the waist she was accused of having stolen. The police were much surprised at this, and the conclusion that during the night she had thrown them down the waste-pipe, convincing them of this from the circumstance that she had a dangerous thief to her credit.

content with Detective Tierney took special pains to narrate the circumstances to Judge McMahon at the Yorkville Police Court on Saturday morning, and the girl was to be late for bail for trial at Special Sessions and was locked up in the Tombs.

Her trial was called yesterday before the three judges who preside at Special Sessions, and Florist Matty and his wife appeared against her. To their surprise the detective from the Thirty-fifth Street Station was not present. When the case was called Mr. and Mrs. Matty testified to the circumstances as above related, but nobody was on hand to corroborate the story. Judge Ryan thereupon listened promptly discharged her, immediately refusing to postpone or adjourn the hearing of the case until the testimony from the police could be forthcoming.

At the Thirty-fifth Street Station it was said yesterday that Detective Tierney had gone downtown in the morning expressly for the purpose of appearing against the girl and against a burglar in the Court of General Sessions. It was presumed that he had caused him to be late for the trial. "No man," said the Sergeant in charge, "can you know, be in two places at once."

But be that as it may, through the evidence of the Justices to wait for the evidence the girl had escaped.

(From the Morning World.)ONE HUNDRED WOMEN VOTED.*New Rochelle's Lively School Election Results in the Old Board's Triumph.

New Rochelle had one of the most exciting school elections in its history yesterday, the polls being open from 3 P. M. until sunset. The contesting forces were the friends of the old board and an opposition led by an ex-School Commissioner who had been refused the use of the school building at various times.

For the first time an attempt was made to introduce politics in the New Rochelle school elections. Meetings have been held in club rooms and in the town halls for the last three months. Ladies took part. The leading candidates were: The Fishers, Greenblatts, Todds, Carpenters and families of the place were members of committees engaged in making house-to-house canvasses in private carriages to bring the voters to the polls.

The result was that the old board, a total of 487, polled 307 votes for the following trustees: Herbert A. Quackenbush, James V. Currier, Herman A. Rittenbush, Henry S. Clarke, and for Henry H. Todd for Treasurer. About one hundred women voted. The friends of the winning ticket had a jollification last night.

and those about to become mothers, should know that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the child of its mother and child, by aiding nature in preparing the system for parturition. Thoroughly "labor" and the period of confinement are greatly shortened. It also promotes an abundant secretion of nourishment for the child.

South Bend, Pacific Co. Wash. Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.:

Dear Sir: I began taking your "Favorite Prescription" the first month of pregnancy, and have continued taking it since confinement. I did not experience the nausea or any of the ailments due to pregnancy. I was only in labor a short time, and the physician said I got along unusually well.

It saved me a great deal of suffering. I was troubled a great deal with leucorrhoea also, and it has cured that.

Sincerely yours,
Mrs. W. C. Baker.

(From the Morning World.)BUT HE GOT HIS LICENSE.

Noah Davis, Carl Schurz and Others Protested; Saloon-Keeper Powers Came Out Ahead.

There is a good deal of feeling at Pocantico Hills, N. Y., over the action of the North Tarrytown Excise Commissioners in granting a license to a man named Powers to open a saloon. A strong effort has been made to suppress the saloon influence, and only a short time ago Judge Noah Davis, aided by a few other persons, subscribed a purse of several thousand dollars to buy the property of a drinking resort on the Bedford road.

Dr. Wanier, of the drug firm of Wanier & Imgard, of this city, rented the property to Powers to begin the saloon business. An effort was made to head Powers off by appealing to the Excise Commissioners at North Tarrytown. The saloon in question is only a few rods from the church of the Magdalene, of which Rev. Joseph F. Sheahan is pastor. He drew up a letter of protest to the Commissioners against granting the license. In addition to this a petition was drawn up by citizens also asking the Commissioners to refuse the license.

This, among other signatures, had those of Carl Schurz, Noah Davis, Rufus W. Weeks, A. G. Sherwood, Prof. W. E. D. Scott and Lewis Roberts. On Friday evening last Mr. William H. Graham called at the house of Commissioner Martin Makel, in Pocantico Hills, and was assured that the license would not be granted. He was granted at a special meeting of the Excise Commissioners. Father Sheahan, when he appeared before the Commissioners later in the afternoon, was so informed.

On Sunday morning after mass Father Sheahan denounced the saloon and the action of the Commissioners, saying that the latter were unfit for their positions. A committee of citizens has been appointed to carry the matter to the courts.

LITTLE AUGUST SEEMED TO BE DEAD.But the Undertaker Found His Body Warm and He May Get Well.

Little August Vandeveldt, two years old, of Passaic, N. J., suffered several days last week with a summer complaint. On Monday night he died apparently. His father, August Vandeveldt, is the wealthy proprietor of a hotel. He made arrangements for a big funeral and ordered an expensive casket for the body. Yesterday evening when the undertaker was placing the corpse in the casket he found it was not yet cold. He informed the parents, and they hastily sent for a doctor and also attempted themselves to revive the child. When the physician arrived he found the boy had already come to life again. He is still weak, but there is every hope that his life will be saved. The doctor explains the apparent miracle by the fact that the child has weak lungs and his respiration was always faint. He says although the child was dead apparently, he breathed sufficiently to keep the body warm. It was not placed upon ice at all. The funeral, which was to have been held this morning, has been declared off and the happy Vandeveldts are busy notifying their friends not to come.

Lawsuit Over the Eldorado Lease.

Max Wahrman, to whom Adolph Rothmiller assigned his claim, has brought an action in the Supreme Court to recover $1,200 from the North Hudson Land Company, which owns the Eldorado, as his five per cent. commission for leasing the property to Henry E. Schwartz. Schwartz took a three years' lease at $12,000 a year from Jan. 6. Rothmiller got $600 on account, and assigned the claim to Wahrman.
